Federal COVID Stimulus Relief: Individuals

- President Trump signed the $1.4 trillion omnibus spending bill on Monday
- Direct relief to individuals:
 - $600 for adults making up to $75,000 and $600 for each dependent child.
 - $300/week additional unemployment benefit through March 14, 2021.
 - Emergency federal residential rental assistance program ($25 billion) to be distributed by state and local governments.
 - Extends existing CDC eviction moratorium through January 31, 2021.
 - $13 billion for the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program.
- Other relief
 - $68 billion to purchase and distribute COVID-19 vaccines and help states conduct testing.
 - Includes a provision ending surprise medical billing. Patients would be required to receive a "true and honest cost estimate" three days before any scheduled procedure — billing disputes would be subject to arbitration.

Federal COVID Stimulus Relief: Businesses

- Small business relief

- PPP loans: The new $284 billion round funding provides a great opportunity for companies that did not receive a forgivable PPP loan earlier this year.
 - It also allows businesses with 300 or few employees that experienced more than 25% revenue loss in the first, second or third quarter in 2020 to secure a second forgivable PPP loan.
- Full deductibility for business expenses paid with PPP proceeds.
- $15 billion would be reserved for live venues, independent movie theaters and cultural institutions, which have been struggling due to pandemic-forced closures.
- $10 billion for childcare centers to help providers safely reopen.
- S. 4479, a set of temporary commercial bankruptcy provisions to help commercial landlord and tenants, particularly small businesses. Another provision gives small tenants the benefit of more time to defer rent in their bankruptcy case as well as repay the deferred rent over time.
